Powerful self-service and delegated Active Directory® management

WEB ACTIVE
DIRECTORY LLC

"Web Active Directory provided us with simple, cost effective software that does exactly what we needed."

"It was an absolute pleasure talking with you guys this morning. I NEVER say that about talking with a vendor. I'm the queen of vendor dodgers because I hate talking to them. But I have to admit I don't feel that way about you guys."

Delegated and self-service updates to Active Directory

Empower business owners and end-users to securely update AD information through a web-based interface. Enable end-users to update their own information or delegate access to update Active Directory information to Windows groups, all through a customizable web interface.

Online company directory

Create an instant web-based company directory with the ability to target who sees what information in your Active Directory. You can easily customize the view of any information in your directory.

Active Directory group management

Delegate the management of Active Directory security and distribution groups to group owners or other groups like your human resources department.

Delegated Active Directory password and account management

Account management functionality enables you to delegate common AD account management activities—including password resets, account unlocks, and enabling/disabling AD accounts—to your help desk, business managers or directly to end-users.

Active Directory reporting

Powerful reporting capabilities empower administrators, auditors and authorized users to view and run reports on information in your Active Directory. Customize reports to provide access to information that is top priority and specific to your business needs. Run reports on users, groups, computers, printers and nearly any other object in Active Directory.

Active Directory user photos

Show photos of your users along with their account information in your intranet or Internet site.
